

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

FOREWORD

Few educational bibliographies have been written with the viewpoint of one who so thoroughly understands the problems of the teachers in the elementary and secondary schools as does Dean Frederick E. Bolton.

Too many times the compilers cover a special field, giving a mass of poorly classified material, through which a teacher must search for what might be useful.

Dean Bolton has spared himself no amount of labor in collecting and classifying the material in this bibliography, and it is to be hoped that it may be of genuine service to the teachers of the State of Washington.

JOSEPHINE CORLISS PRESTON,
State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

INTRODUCTORY STATEMENT

In connection with most public school systems in small towns as well as in large cities the custom of having libraries containing books and magazines useful to the pupils in the school has become quite thoroughly established. There is one phase of the library development, however, which is gaining very little momentum anywhere in the country. In very few places is there any real development of a library of books and magazines for the teachers. It is very generally conceded by superintendents and school boards that teachers should be in touch with the latest educational literature. It is usually assumed, however, by boards that the teachers should provide themselves with such literature. A moment's thought will show that this is entirely impracticable and in most cases impossible. The beginning teacher recently from the normal school or university has accumulated few books. It is also very difficult for a teacher without definite tenure of office in a given place to accumulate much of a library because of the impracticability of moving it each year. As a consequence, the great majority of teachers have few general books on education and no magazines except the current numbers of a few magazines.

Would it not be desirable for school boards to provide a professional teachers' library in connection with the school system? Every small village ought to have a teachers' library in connection with the school library. In the larger cities there ought to be such a library in every grade building. The board of education ought to provide a reasonable amount each year for the purchase of the best books that appear and for subscriptions to the standard educational magazines. In addition to that, the board of education ought to encourage teachers to subscribe for a certain number of magazines individually. The magazines subscribed for individually would be taken to the school where all could have access to them. At the close of the year, should the individual teacher not care to keep the magazines for which they subscribed individually they could donate them to the school district.

In the accompanying bibliography there is an attempt to bring together a list of the most useful educational books and magazines which should be accessible to every teacher in a school system. Of course it is not expected that every teacher will read all of the books included in the list, but all the books included should be made available to the teaching corps as a whole, so that all teachers could have access to those of general import and each individual could have access to those related to his special line. It should be noted that the books listed are all of recent date, almost none having been published before 1900. Magazine articles are not included.

The bibliography is selective and limited rather than exhaustive. Those who have access to this list can easily extend it to include books, pamphlets, and magazine references along specialized lines. In a few cases some desired items are not given. Inasmuch as the bibliography was nearly ready before the war the prices indicated are mainly pre-war list prices. It was hoped to recheck each reference so as to insure absolute accuracy and completeness of detail; but that would greatly delay publication. Prices are so fluctuating that direct inquiry of the publishers is the only way to secure correct prices. So many calls constantly come for this kind of material that it is believed the main purpose will be served by publication at this time. This is to be regarded as a preliminary edition. It is hoped that many persons interested will help to revise and extend it.
